IN MEMORY

IN MEMORIAM

In sad but loving remembrance of our dear Daddy, and Husband, T. J. Gardner, who departed this life five (5) years ago today, Dec. 18, 1953.

The stars are brightly shining upon a silent grave;
In it lies a loved one we loved, but could not save.

You made no one a last farewell,
you said goodbye to none;
The heavenly gates just opened wide and a loving voice said "come."

God saw the road was getting rough,
the hills too hard to climb.
So he gently closed your weary eyes, and whispered "Peace be Thine."

Daddy, when I stand beside your grave and place flowers there with care,
Something in my heart tells me you know I am there.

—Sadly missed by
Wife, Son and Daughters.

Parasites Can Be
Troublesome To Calves

Internal parasites can be troublesome to calves, but indiscriminate treatment of herds whether they need it or not is not recommended, says Dr. S. L. Kalison, veterinarian at VPI.

Dr. Kalison says that treatment should be given when symptoms of parasitism appear, and the need for treatment should be determined by a diagnosis based on the microscopic examination of fecal samples.

Mature cows also are subject to parasitism, but it isn't necessary to treat them as often as calves.

When roundworms, the most common parasites of calves, appear, phenothiazine should be administered in two treatments 15 days apart, at a rate based on the weight of the animal. For instance, an animal weighing 300 pounds would receive 1 ounce of powdered phenothiazine, or 2 ounces of drench. One weighing 400 pounds would receive 1½ ounces powdered phenothiazine, or 4 ounces of drench. One weighing 600 pounds would receive 2½ ounces of powdered phenothiazine, or 5 ounces of drench. The maximum dose for animals of any size over 800 pounds is 2 2-8 ounces of powdered phenothiazine, or 6 ounces of drench. This amount should not be exceeded.

In most cases, Dr. Kalison says, the treatment should be followed by feeding a mixture of 1 part phenothiazine to 10 parts of salt free choice.

Drugs alone will not control parasites in cattle. Sanitation, proper management, and pasture rotation also are necessary.

Dr. Kalison warns that phenothiazine is excreted in and causes a reddish discoloration of milk, and should not be given to milking cows. If it is given to such animals the milk should not be shipped, but can be fed to calves.

VETERANS GIFTS

The best Christmas gifts for veterans who must spend the coming holiday season as patients in Veterans Administration hospitals are visits from friends and relatives, Carlton W. Bragg, Officer-in-charge of the Lynchburg VA Office said, and the next best gift is a long newsy letter from home. Visits and letters from home are needed throughout the year, as well as on holidays, Bragg said.

Individuals and organizations planning to give presents to VA patients for Christmas may contact the chief of Special Services at each hospital to learn the need for and appropriateness of personal gifts, Bragg said.

Clothing for personal use, such as sport shirts, ties, handkerchiefs, socks and stationery are recommended as useful and acceptable gifts for patients.

VA canteen coupon books also make appropriate gifts for patients. Articles from the hospital canteens are brought in carts into wards, of the hospitals so that patients confined to their beds can select the items they want.

The canteen coupon books come in denominations of 50 cents and $1.00. They can be spent throughout the year and may be purchased from VA hospitals.

Other gifts that many patients find useful are hair brushes, combs and lotions, Bragg said.

Veterans in hospitals are furnished playing cards and other games, as well as books and magazines.

Gifts of this kind generally would be needed less than the other articles mentioned.

Bragg cautioned givers, not to give candies, cookies, and other sweets unless they know the patient is permitted to have them by the doctor.

Bring the children to Appomattox this Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock to see Santa Claus and receive a free gift.

Hixburg

Hixburg, Dec. 15.- At Old Concord Presbyterian Church in the morning, and in Walker's Presbyterian Church at Hixburg in the evening, at 7:30, will be a Christmas program picturing the Nativity Scene, on Dec. 21.

Mr. Wilbur Maxwell, assistant pastor at Walker's Church, will direct it.

Mrs. Frank Goin will be the narrator, and Mrs. Walter Carson will have charge of the music.

A musician from Lynchburg will be on hand to lead the chorus. All are invited to attend.

On Wednesday, Mr. Frank P. Cauble and Mr. Harry E. Gilliam, both of Lynchburg, interviewed Miss Maggie Hix on what was told by relatives about the Hix Tavern, which was in operation at the time of the Surrender at Old Appomattox Court House, in 1865.

Mr. Cauble, research historian, is making a survey of the cultural and landscape features of old villages of Apupomattox.

Special emphasis will be on Old Appomattox Court House, and the National Historical Park.

Right on the nose of 6° was the thermometer on Jim Taylor's store porch Friday A. M. He had a plenty of big oak stove wood to warm the children who waited there for the school bus, that did not come.

Soon students could be seen going merrily along the road, dragging their sleds. The snow was "fine" for them.

The "good neighbor policy" is still in vogue around here. There has been a gratis hand out of good old country sausage, ribs, etc.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Burrell attended a dinner which was given at Pamplin for the Garment Factory workers on Saturday evening.

Kinckle Martin arrived at home on Friday for a Christmas vacation from V. P. I.

Mrs. John Wilson Hix was taken to Southside Community Hospital in Farmville early Monday morning.

Health and Beauty

There is a great deal of attention being called to legs this season—the short skirts have seen to this. Many of us would just as soon have our skirts worn just above floor level, for obvious reasons. However, since we must conform to the decrees of fashion, we had better do all we can to make our legs look their best.

A great deal of improvement in appearance can be made by being very careful to hide any blemish, cut or bruise than you may incur. Broken veins are a trial for some women. There is a makeup on the market designed to hide these and other leg blemishes. If is somewhat thicker than makeup for the face, but comes in different tints, to be matched to your coloring.

Hair-free legs are a "must" for good grooming. Sheer nylons will not hide the hair on your legs, and even calls attention to it in some cases.

Plenty of lather is the secret of smooth shaving. Scrape in only one direction — with the grain, to avoid irritating hair follicles. A heavy lather serves several purposes. It softens the hair, makes the razor travel smoothly, and it helps avoid infection in face of an accidental nick. The lather acts as a cleanser for the wound.

If you do cut yourself, cover it in such a manner as to minimize the possibility that it will detract from the appearance of your legs.

Never use a rusty blade —don't shave if it must be with a rusty blade. If the blade has been used before, wash it well with hot water before using it.

Exercise can do a lot to improve the shape of your legs. These exercises are simple and do not require a lot of effort. However, they do take time, and constant attention to render results.

BUSMAN'S HOLIDAY

Seminole, Tex.- A bus company is being sued for $25,000 by Mrs. Anna Crapps, who contends she suffered a nervous breakdown after a bus in which she was riding was taken on a joy ride by an off-duty driver for the company.
